

Launching the Staffordshire Play Policy

Yarnfield 9th March 2010

A No Ball Games! event on behalf of Staffordshire County Council

No Ball Games! has hosted the launch of the Staffordshire Play Policy at an event held at the Yarnfield Training & Conference Centre.

Around 50 participants from across the county attended and heard presentations from six speakers (see photo on right) on topics including Embedding the Play Policy, Experiences of Implementation, National & Local Play Indicators, and Funding.

Evaluations have been very positive and comments made include “Some ideas I haven’t heard before that made good sense in defining play” and most importantly, “The Laurel and Hardy intro was good!” Intrigued? Then you’ll have to come to a No Ball Games! event to find out what that was all about.

For details of future events see our website www.noballgames.eu

Front Row left to right: Alex Binks (Staffordshire Council) and Rachel Murray (No Ball Games!)

Back Row: Neil Coleman (Play England), David Yearley (RoSPA), Marc Armitage (No Ball Games!), Karen Sullivan (South Staffs Council), Carolyn Coxon (CASES)

Cllr Ben Adams, Cabinet Member for Communities, officially launches Staffordshire’s new Play Policy

Participants listen to one of the key note presentations. The day provided three main presentations and four choice sessions