

A Playtime Hush

In a week when the city of Berlin has successfully voted to introduce a by-law recognising children's right to be noisy while playing we are reminded of the above story.

First reported in the Hull Daily Mail (15th December 2005) this story tells of a threat of closure being held over a children's centre in Hornsea, East Yorkshire ... because its children tended to be noisy while playing outside.

Go figure.
